Michaelea:

For me: I'm struggling to continue in school. I hope to graduate.
For my family: Prayers for my nephew to be safe and happy.
For others: For the homes to all bond together more.

Eastside Family,
 Thank you all so much! Words cannot express how much gratitude I have for this congregation. A large part of who I am has to do with the fact that I have grown up with the best possible role models and hard-working Christians that I have ever met. I can't thank you all enough for raising me and having standards for me to uphold.

With Love,

Lauren Wade

Our Third Annual Back-to-School Carnival will take place on Saturday, July 20, from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. That means we need your help to collect school supplies for our neighborhood kids! Here is the list of supplies that are needed: #2 pencils, 24 count crayon boxes, white glue, dry erase markers, tissues, scissors, Band-Aids, wide ruled composition notebook, glue sticks, highlighters, wide ruled spiral notebook, 2- pocket folder, 3-ring folders, washable markers, post-it notes, and pencil/school boxes. Last year, we had enough supplies to fill over 70 backpacks! Let's do it again! We'll also need volunteers to help pull this off for the neighborhood. A sign-up sheet will be forthcoming to provide you an opportunity to serve.

Please note that DeAnna Carver has a new phone number: 812-562-1370.

IGNITE

IGNITE will meet tonight at 5:00 p.m.

Lifeless Hands

“The hands with which you hold this book will be lifeless.” This is how the book on death that I read a couple of years ago began. The premise was simple. To say “we’re all going to die someday” is a tired cliché that doesn’t really move anyone. We are effectively isolated from intimate experiences of death by the outsourcing of the care of the dying to professionals and institutions. And, in spite of the death that is regularly beamed into our lives by news and entertainment, these are not real deaths to us. Their safe distance reassures us that death is, in the end, for someone else and not for us. No one, then, really has a grip on the reality of their own inevitable deaths. But they should, especially if they’re Christians.

Fear of death has plagued man from time immemorial. In recent times, lists of Americans’ greatest fears have always contained the fear of death, even though its position rises and falls. More recently, however, it’s fallen quite a bit, being buried beneath the more pressing concerns of corrupt government officials, pollution of drinking water, not having enough money for the future, and cyber-terrorism (for a complete list, see Chapman University’s “America’s Top Fears”). Is this because Americans have finally adjusted to the notion of their own deaths, or is it because we’ve managed to avoid confronting it by our tendency to push it to the margins and distract ourselves with other priorities? In reality, fear of death still lives, even amongst Christians. We need to know what Jesus would have us do with it.

So, remember: the hands with which you hold this bulletin will one day be lifeless. Have you embraced and come to peace with this truth? Let’s see if we can work it out this morning.

Matt Carver

Guests: Please fill out a yellow attendance card and drop it in the collection plate.
